*Doc Brackett and Rebecca
Grand Champ LWM LAARK 2007*

Hi Rebecca, welcome to LamaLink. When and what was your introduction to llamas? What made you purchase your first llamas and what keeps you going with them?

Thanks for having me! My very first experience with a llama was at a petting zoo when I was 7. The petting zoo trip didn't give me the llama bug, but growing up next to my grandfather's dairy farm in Wisconsin, I had always been around farms animals. As a kid, we had horses, chickens and of course, cows everywhere, so I had many great memories of playing with the animals from my childhood. As a young adult, I've always lived in a large city, but have wanted more space. A few years back my husband and I purchased a piece of land outside of Memphis, TN. I thought that would be the perfect time to have a small farm. I already owned a couple of horses, but wanted some kind of livestock I could raise. I needed something that would work with small acreage, and something that was "kid" safe. Originally, I had been interested in alpacas, but as I did more research I was really drawn to llamas. I loved how smart they were and versatile. I didn't know if I could handle the day-to-day herd management of llamas, but the less expensive investment made my husband happy and they seemed hardy, so that worked for me. We decided llamas would be perfect. In April of 2006 I purchased two maiden females and a gelding. That was just the beginning, and I was hooked.

Your farm is located in Tennessee, what part of the State? How many llamas do you currently have?

We are just outside of Memphis, TN, about 10 miles east of the city. We currently have 11 llamas, which include two herd sires, five breeding girls, two recently born cria and two geldings.

You and your daughter Roxanna, are great show advocates. What aspect of shows are you involved in? How can we continue to make shows the driving force of our industry? How can we involve the youth more?

Wow ... we just love everything there is to do with showing... I think the best part about showing for me is spending time with my daughter. There are no shows really close by our farm, so every show we're able to go to is a mini adventure. We try to bring all of the llamas that we can fit in a trailer so we can compete in all of the events possible and really maximize our trip. For us, it's not so much about winning or losing, it's just getting out there, meeting new people and having fun. Of course we've brought home our share of blue ribbons, but spending the time with my daughter, while she still wants to spend the time with me, is really important.

One of the decisions I made at the beginning of our llama adventure, was to include my daughter as a partner. She (age 11) literally is co-owner of some of our llamas. Of course she helps with the normal daily care, feeding, watering, shearing, training, grooming etc. but, she is also a financial partner. In fact, she purchased her performance llama, Lolita, in full, with money she received by selling her Quarter Horse. Roxanna gets to keep ½ of her youth premiums she earns, and the other ½ goes towards paying back the entry fees. She also gets to keep ½ of the money earned from selling any of her co-owned llamas. This past month we just sold our first cria off the farm, which is co-owned by Roxanna, so she'll get a few hundred dollars to put in her bank! It's important to me to teach responsibility to my daughter. As an adult, I want her to know how to take care of herself, her future family and her financial commitments. Llama ownership has been a great tool so far to teach her all of these valuable life lessons!

As far as making shows a driving force in our industry, I think we need to improve attendance. I've not shown in many other regions, but in the Southeast, and Mid-west there is a real effort to make the shows fun and welcoming to all exhibitors. The atmosphere of a show is really key to getting exhibitors to come, and to then return the next year. I also feel it's important to publicize your shows to the public. I personally LOVE sharing my llamas and llama stories with new people. I understand that most non-exhibitors coming to the shows are just there to see an animal they may not otherwise get the chance to see, but isn't that the perfect time to show off how well trained and beautiful a llama can be? You never know, the next person you meet may decide to be a future llama owner!!

Involving the youth is definitely a key component to the future of our industry. I think it helps attract new people to llamas by hosting kid friendly events. One of the coolest weekends we've ever participated in was our attendance at the All American Youth Jamboree in Nobelsville, IN this past June. www.youthjamboree.net This weekend was jam packed with llama clinics, games, spinning, weaving and felting classes, not to mention an ALSA and a 4-H show, and much, much more. They offered a really fun-filled weekend, and I think other people could look to the Nenni's system and gather valuable insight for developing their own youth program. In fact, Kim Kyst, of Chelian Farm, came to the Jamboree to learn from Marilyn. Kim is hosting her own youth llama clinic at the UGA Instructional Arena in Athens, GA, April 2009. One tool that Kim and Marilyn have both used to encourage and develop a youth base, is the 4-H program. 4-H is nationwide, and I think is a great way to encourage new kids to discover llamas!

What other aspects of having llamas do you pursue?

We do everything we can with our llamas. I don't process the fiber yet, but have made some wonderful contacts with a local spinner's guild, and was able to sell all of my fiber right off the backs of my llamas this past spring. I would encourage anyone who is just throwing their fiber away right now, to contact their local guild. I'm sure there are spinners in your area that would LOVE the chance to work with llama fiber, and it's a great way to help pay for a few bags of feed or bales of hay!

We also love to hike. There are a few state parks nearby that will allow us to bring the llamas, so when we have the chance, we pack up the saddle bags and head off. We normally just hike for the day, and have a picnic lunch but we're planning our first overnight camping trip at Land Between The Lakes in KY this November! (We can't wait, and everyone is welcome to join in!)

I have also always wanted to have a driving llama. I have one excellent gelding in training, but we've not really taken him to the open road yet. Driving is definitely a goal for the future.

You are involved in your church's Heifer Project, tell us about that.

vendors set up inside their gymnasium and classrooms. This was the first year the Heifer Project set up a fund-raising booth at the craft fair and they weren't sure how it was going to be received. The Heifer Project is a nationwide non-profit group that raises money which is used to purchase livestock for third world families. The goal is that recipient families will use the livestock as an income source. For example, a donator at the booth could "purchase" a llama for a South American family for $150. (The purchase is usually done as a tax deductible gift for a friend or local family member.) The family in South America could then hire this llama out to carry goods to a local market, sell its offspring, and use its fiber to make marketable products. Heifer also provides animal care training, so some families are able to earn an income worming, administering basic vaccinations and teaching basic animal care to other families. Overall, our booth raised approximately $7000.00 last year, which was considered a HUGE success! We had brought my daughter's performance llama, Lolita, and had a great time taking pictures, feeding handfuls of feed and explaining how the llama is a critical component to rural South American life! It was truly a wonderful way to give back to the community and we're looking forward to the event again this year. Check out www.heifer.org for opportunities like this one in your area.

With very few farms in your state how are you learning about llamas? A mentor? Associations? How are you doing some local marketing?

I have been really lucky to have met some nice llama people, and people willing to be my llama mentors. My real education with llamas has to be credited to my current mentor, Laura Keller at Yellow Wood Llamas. She has been fantastic, and a constant source of advice and guidance! I think that is one of the really neat things about the llama community; pretty much everyone involved is willing to help out each other, and there is a real sense of support. I've also been fortunate to meet Dayle of Caru Llamas. She has also been a wonderful resource for my many questions that come up. In addition, I'm a member of the Tennessee Llama Community, Southern States Llama Association, ALSA, & ILR. I've never been shy about e-mailing, and if I find a breeder that might be able to answer a specific question I have, for example researching mini-llamas, or suri llamas, I just feel free to ask. So far, no one has refused giving me an answer, and I think that speaks volumes for the industry and the nice people that are out there.

As far as local marketing, I think you, Sue, wrote an article once that every time you leave your farm you have the chance to market your product and your llamas. I always try to have my llamas looking presentable when we leave for a hike, or stroll down the road. I also always bring business cards where ever I go, and copies of the Southern States Llama Association magazine "Discover Llamas" in case I run into someone with a serious interest in the breed. The magazine is published every other year, and gives an excellent overview on the basic care and training of llamas. It's geared towards new owners and is a key tool in my marketing plan. Since there aren't many farms in my area, I need to be able to educate prospective new owners, so we hold farm days, fun days and encourage farm visits.

You sell some great products on your website, what are they and how did you get the ideas for them. How are you marketing? What aspects of your site are unique? (new postings & calendar of events)

Thank you for your support of my products! My primary business is in the safety of road construction projects –ie: everything orange. We're the people that put out the drums, construction signs etc for road projects. I have a vendor who manufactures the telescoping bars and cones, and one day just decided they would make great llama jumps!! I keep a small obstacle course in one of our pastures, for training, and I set up some cones with the bars to see how I'd like them. I really think they are an outstanding product. They are versatile, compact, lightweight and easily stored. Plus, since all of the items are manufactured specifically to be used outdoors, you should get many years of use! Right now I am taking the products to the shows I go to, and have them advertised for sale on my website. I have also donated a few sets to different llama groups to help with their fundraising efforts.

Thank you for the complement on the website. Of all my marketing tools, I think the website is the most important. Jim at Burnt Mountain Llamas did the initial design for me, and it's set up so I can change the content as needed. I really like seeing current info on websites, so I try to keep my site as up-to-date as possible. I have a calendar of events page, so if there are any cool llama things going on I can post them there. Hopefully this is useful to other people wanting to know about llama type stuff, whether that includes showing, a fiber festival, farm day, clinic or hike.

You are in an age demographic that we need more of in the llama industry. How can we attract and keep people to our great livestock industry?

I really feel llamas attract people themselves, so just getting out and letting your community know that you're there is the first step. This can be through your local church fundraiser, going on hikes, hosting an "open barn" day, participating in your local parades or just walking your llamas down the road. I also think involving your local youth is another good way of encouraging a younger demographic, and then providing support to the new owners. We always invite my daughter's friends to come hiking with us, and we're considering starting up a 4-H llama program in our county. We've also thought about providing a "lease a llama" service for kids or families who may want to try out llama ownership without the full commitment.

What are some performance training tips you can share with us? Any tips for using the neat obstacles you are selling?

Well... I am no professional llama trainer, by any means! But for my gang, consistency, patience and trust have worked for us. This is my first year to have crias born on the farm, and we started right away with the water. We get very hot down here in Memphis, so I want all of my llamas to enjoy the water hose, primarily as a prevention method to heat stress. This type of training has a nice side effect though, and my little crias will come running when they see the hose come out. We're currently working on them standing in the wading pools I have set out, and I think eventually this will all translate into fabulous performance llamas!

The obstacles I sell are really versatile. You can use the cones stacked at different heights to make 16"-20" step overs/jumps. Multiple bars with a stack of cones can make a step lightly obstacle, and the taller cones with a bar make a limbo. Hang streamers or a screen and the limbo becomes more difficult. One customer is going to use the jumps turned sideways and parallel to each other to make a raised backing passage. He said this would be easier to train a younger llama since they will be able to "feel" the sides when they start to go off course as opposed to having the obstacle laying on the ground. In the end, my best tip for the use of my products, is to just get creative!

How do you envision the future of Roxywood Farms and the llama industry as a whole?

Wow... I envision great things for the llama industry as a whole. I think we all need to support each other and the events we're each hosting. I feel that with the rising price of gas, we'll see more localized fun days which will help to get enthusiasm built for the bigger shows. Starting at the local level might help rejuvenate the original grass roots nature of the llama industry.

As far as our farm, we're focused on llamas with good personalities and excellent fiber. We are going to continue with the concept of just having fun with our llamas during shows, fun days, hikes etc. We are also beginning a very exciting breeding program. This past fall we purchased a beautiful appy suri stud that we are super excited to have as the cornerstone to our breeding program. We've carefully chosen girls that we feel will complement this new stud, and we're excited to see the results. Breeding for suri, fiber, size and temperament is definitely the direction we have chosen for Roxywood Farms.

Hinterland Sale

by Venesa Carter

Photos by Bob Storer & Venesa Carter

As soon as we stepped off the plane in Oregon the last weekend of July, we knew we were in for a wonderful weekend. The beautiful summer weather in Oregon is a far cry from the Midwest heat and humidity.

After we checked into our hotel on Friday, we headed out to Hinterland Farm for the Walkabout VI Sale. This was our first time at Kay's and we were excited for our adventure. As we drove down the gravel driveway, manicured pastures greeted us with familiar iconic faces of the llama world. Llamas that have helped shape the industry were looking over the fences at us as we drove in. As we parked in the back lot, we couldn't help but be taken by the beautiful, snow capped Sisters Mountains that look over the Hinterland ranch.

Friday was a busy day with many new and familiar faces walking around enjoying the llamas that were in the sale and part of Kay's keeper herd. The sale llamas are not kept in small pens. They are in big pastures that you can walk around in and evaluate each animal in a more natural state.

After a nice lunch, Kay gathered all the attendees for her presentation of herd sires. What fun! Seeing the males that over the years have made Kay into the llama guru she is known for. After the herd sire presentation, the preview of the sale animals began. As per usual, the pictures in the catalog did not do the llamas justice. Each animal presented was lovely and as individual ones passed, the chatter in the audience was very apparent the air was electrifying. The first 'warm up' lots were not in the catalog. They consisted of a complete group of llama magazines from the 80's and 90's. Also auctioned off was a beautiful cart that could be pulled by llamas.

The llama part of the sale began with Lot 1-A being purchased by Fred and Susan Hamlin for $4000. In turn, the Hamlin's donated the llama to Caitlin Coburn, the young lady that had been showing Cascade High for the last 3 years, as a memorial to his former owner, Bill Ogle. There wasn't a dry eye in the house and a standing ovation was given to the Hamlin's for their kind generosity. All the proceeds as their favorites came on stage. After the sale preview, we were all treated to a wonderful Western Style BBQ.

Saturday morning was abuzz! I don't think I slept at all that night knowing my favorites were other buyer's favorites as well. The sale started at 11am and the excitement in of this sale are being set up as a Veterinarian School Scholarship. As an added bonus, Ken and Celia Austin generously matched the Lot 1-A selling price of $4000 to be donated to the Vet School.

After everyone wiped their eyes, the rest of the sale began. One by one, each lot was sold to the high bidder. The opening bid was $1000 on each lot. Kay had no Reserves on any of her animals and each one went on to a happy new owner. Most of the consignment llamas changed hands also. Some of the stars of the sale were Lot 14, Hildago, purchased by Cheryl Russell for $26,000; Lot 18, Nevisca, purchased by Wayne Rankin for $15,000; Lot 39, Heylee, purchased by Rick and Mary Adams for $19,000; Lot 65, Esska, purchased by Ken Austin for $15,000; Lot 68, Tijara, purchased by Gordon and Pam Jensen for $9000; and Lot 75, Happytalk, purchased by Ken Austin for $9500. We happily took home one of our favorites, Lot 57, Cassala, in partnership with Justin Timm.

At the end of the sale, Kay announced that this was her last production sale as she was cutting back but certainly not getting out of the llama industry. After the sale and announcements, everyone paid for their new purchases and llamas were loaded up and headed out to their new homes. Everyone in attendance noted what an amazing weekend it had been. Many people from all over the US and Canada got to experience Kay and Eric's hospitality for one last hurrah at their beautiful farm!

Going Par Avion, with Air Canada Au revoir and Bonjour

by Sue Wilde
& Jean Pascal Petit

Jean Pascal Petit &
WCR Dr. McDreamy

I read all my messages that come into my email that have the word llamas attached to them but I was hardly prepared for the following text:

Dear Sue,

This is a male from France. ( a mail from France??!)

I love your llamas, they are so gorgeous! ( read on!)

I actually have one of Lumino's daughters that I bought from MMR Ranch, Karin and Hans Buhrman. She is tremendous! ( Yup. Love those Lumino daughters!)

I would like to know if you would eventually export a few suri llamas to France? ( I can give it my best shot!) I recently started my suri breeding program with one very cute Peruvian imported stud and am really looking forward to his babies on my Sizzling Sam girls. ( more Canadian imports) Arroyo would love our very mild weather here in the south of France! ( and who wouldn't?) Thanks in advance for your reply.

Regards,

Pascal

Jean Pascal Petit, Ardeche Lamas, 07 700 Saint Remeze, France. ( This address looks legit all right!)

This was the start of a wonderful new long distance friendship and a llama adventure extraordinaire! We had emails flying back and forth until we wore the lines out and had to start using a friend of Jean Pascal's to send and forward messages! After narrowing the choices down to 10 as that is the capacity of the airline pallet, Jean Pascal gave up 3 of his spots to his friend Andre Richard who purchased two males, WCR Remember the Titan and WCR Life in the Fast Lane and one of my favorite girls, Vallancy. Andre is a retired vet with a llama breeding program in the north of France and Jean Pascal is in the south.

When it finally came down to the crunch of making the quarantine group, Jean Pascal had picked his 7 llamas. WCR Dr. McDreamy has a first choice for a male with WCR ElCamino and WCR Joker's Wilde (Spike) in has his junior herd sires. Peruvian Cream Puff had always been his first choice for a bred female, bred to FFF Maserati and LLLL Zedra bred to Onstar was his second choice. WCR Suri Surprise out of Onstar and Maserati's Spyder made up the group.

I had contacted Geoff Robinson from Sea Air (our Llama Link interview!) and the flight and all arrangements were booked. The total cost for the shipment was $10,500.00. Not bad really when you consider it is usually $500.00 for a llama to get a ride in the States across country.

The TB testing for Europe was different than for the US as the injection site for the TB is in the neck rather than in the thin loose skin under the front leg. It was impossible to measure skin depth on the neck. When testing time came Zedra had an allergic reaction to the TB with a little bump, just enough to bump her out of the group and as measuring wasn't an option the federal vet chose to exclude her. A great disappointment for all of us. But the flight was only days away so we had to make final plans with out her.

Bev Popowich from Llama Lland Llamas was my trusted side kick on the trip to Calgary and the airport. We had to have the llamas to the Air Canada Cargo at 6:00 am so that meant going to Calgary the night before and leaving the llamas on the trailer in front of my sister's house overnight. Once at the airport the llamas were the center of a buzz of activity. The new pallet which looked like an oversized dog house was ready and the llamas walked from the trailer into that box like they did it everyday, very impressive! The box was sealed and whisked away to be weighed and flown to Toronto.

The flight was scheduled for a 3 hour lay over in Toronto, not bad, and then off to Paris to arrive at 9:40 am. Piece of cake! I walked in the house and the phone was ringing, it was Air Canada. "What should we do with your llamas they have been bumped from their connection to Paris by a load of vaccine packed in dry ice." A load of what? I had them call Sea Air right away and they unloaded the group into the international horse barn where they remained for the next 24 hours until the next flight out where I am sure they caught up on the latest tabloid news and at their fill of junk food!

After a few frantic calls to France to Jean Pascal arrangements were made for the fellows to stay an extra day in Paris, not a torture from my point of view, hey it's Paris!

The torture was waiting for the news that they had arrived in Paris and finally that good news came with a quick phone call on the drive home. I have so enjoyed all the photos of the group settling into their new homes in France! France, how amazing. The love of llamas really does make the world go round! Thank you Andre and Jean Pascal for your dedication to llamas and for a new friendship. I will see you both in October when I come to visit the llamas!

I had been thinking about this importation from Canada for years. These last few weeks had been quite emotionally high here. While I thought every single detail of this importation was matched, one morning the broker in France calls and says he would not accept the llamas because they needed a professional driver to transport from the airport to their quarantine place. I politely explained that I had got in touch with several drivers, that and I actually had considered to go by myself after a few conversations with some professional drivers : Llamas? Do they bite? I heard they do and once they catch you they won't let you go. I thought llamas would be safer if I'd accompany them.

But no way! The broker said, no professional driver, no llamas! I gave a call to my federal vet and explained the story, she said I should be able to drive the llamas by myself for it wasn't a commercial operation as I wasn't going to sell them. I had the answer!

The shipper calls me back and says he also had a call from the person I am sharing the importation with and says this should be ok so the llamas were allowed to fly to France. I have been expecting for this moment for months. Leaving my ranch for one day is always precision work and every single details had been ready.

It's 6 PM ! on the day of my 46th birthday!, On May the 26th ! and we are ready to leave home to pick my 6 llamas! arriving from Canada. Eric my co-pilot is whistling « la vie en Rose » « Is anyone around dressed in Prada? » I ask « What? » he says, Paris where the llamas have to land is at the opposite part of France from where I live. We need to travel by night to arrive just on time for the plane landing. At 4 o'clock in the morning, we are talking and singing trying to keep ourselves awake when the telephone rings in the truck. This is the familiar and joyful voice of Sue that I hear from very far away telling me do not leave home! the llamas are 24 hours late!

Too late ! We are only a few miles away from Paris. Nothing we can do but continue. In spite of the situation, we manage to laugh. What else can we do?! I promise to Sue that I'll keep saying, I love llamas ! I love llamas! till they're in the truck.

This late arrival changes all our schedules! and the hours to come shall be spent on the phone to reorganize all that had been so carefully planned for months.

One thing is sure, Sue said the llamas were fine and after all, this will give them a chance to rest before their flight to France. We then have a day off! We are glad to meet André there, he is sharing the importation with me. I had not seen him since the last European show.

Roissy Charles de Gaulle the airport area is very close to Paris. It is rather looking like what you imagine Alcatraz jail may look like rather than what you imagine Paris, the capital of lights...

No « Folies Bergères » cabaret but thousand of delivery trucks, no « Sacré Coeur » no cathedral but kilometers of metallic fences.

We manage to take a drive to the Castle of Chantilly, where the most fabulous horses are bred.

After a walk in a maze of warehouse looking like offices, we reach the office of the broker, Mister Hautbergue is a very professional person and he will take us through all the duty formalities. From one office to another, after a dozen forms to fill in, a few different « sign here please » we are finally waiting in front of the final gate that is going to take us to a place called « the farm », where all the animals arriving from abroad are kept. I shyly ask if the animals are here...I get a rapid « yes » from the broker.

Our trucks are searched and so are we. We are entering a « under custom zone »

We are finally entering « the farm » an enclosed and fenced area. I can see some boxes of tropical fishes. I do not see any llamas.

I can finally see a big wooden box! The Pallet! Getting closer, here they are! I can feel my heart beating. Another paper to sign? No problem!

Mc Dreamy and Titan are in their own space, and the two young boys with the girls in the other part of the pellet. They look all fine.

I have to contain my emotions. Don't forget ... llamas are not yet under my control! The custom officers around are surprised to see that we give name to the llamas. I recognize them all!

I have always been amazed by the love and peaceful power that llamas have on people. Everybody's smiling, everybody turns nice and are running around to bring the llamas water. While the llamas are quietly leaving the pallet to settle into the trucks, I can hear « I've never seen such cool animals! » Everybody around is taking pictures! The stars are here! They have passed the vet control. So now we can go! Finally a big whisper of well being the llamas are under MY control.

I say « YES! Dreams are stronger than anything! »

It is twilight when we reach home and the 6 llamas take possession of their new home. I take time to meet everyone of them. I love Mc Dreamy he is a monument of charisma. I am just amazed by El Camino, this is the kind of discreet baby that I am sure is going to turn into one of the most gorgeous studs ever. I always had a special feeling for Spike and he proves himself to be a little clown. Suri Surprise and Maseratti Spyder are always together! Cream Puff is a « grande dame » a Laureen Bacall look and you would not be surprised if she was acting the « Has any one got a matche?» scene.

There is something I am sure of, they still have Sue in their heart. I am sure they are missing their Canadian shepherd. I shall work my very best but it is going to take a little while to teach them to smile in French.

Getting Anal About Fecal Analysis

or "The Scoop On Poop"

by Laura Harrawood

Most llama owners are kind of weird about llama dung. We are always looking at it.... like some sort of fecal detectives .... looking for clues. What color is the feces? Is it runny, soft, or formed? Does it have obvious parasite infestation... like tapeworms? And OMG... what if it smells bad?

Is it an adult with runny stools or is it a cria..... the plot definitely thickens. Was this animal just out on new lush pasture or eating hay? A whole series of questions and deducings go into the review and evaluation of ..... poop.

Problems sometimes occur with gesswork- worming because it's "time", or because the llamas "look" like they need worming. Routine worming or improper worming may lead up to drug resistant parasites in your herd. There are herds already showing evidence of resistance to some wormers.

I recently attended a parasite clinic in Alabama given by Stephen R. Purdy, DVM. Dr. Purdy is the Director of Camelid Studies at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. We learned how to take a fecal sample, add a sugar solution, mash this up into a fecal soup, spin it in a centrifuge and then look for and count parasite eggs using the microscope. This is called the Modified Stoll's method.

Dr. Purdy also explains the right dewormer to use and the proper dose for each and every important parasite. Knowing the animals weight is valuable as well as knowing the importance of strategic deworming. For example: Before winter or around birthing time.

Dr. Purdy is vehement about worming camelids only when they need it. The sure way to know if they need it is to do a fecal examination under the microscope using the proper techniques.

The most effective way to identify parasite eggs is to use the Modified Stoll's method. Dr. Purdy is fervent about a couple of other things as well. Anthelmintics are poison and so after they do their job for our llamas they do a number on our soil as well. Beneficial bugs are also effected by anthelmintics and could cause negative consequences in our soil..... harming earth worms and dung beetles to name a few.

Follow up fecal examinations should be done 10 – 14 days after deworming to check the efficacy of the dewormer.... Is it working?? How many times have we wormed llamas then stepped back and said, “shew, now that’s done for awhile”, and done nothing else.

Dr. Purdy is passionate about his efforts to raise money for an orphanage in Peru AND he is really really passionate about his efforts to raise money for research. He emphasizes over and over and OVER the importance of raising, sending, giving money for camelid research. Dr Purdy and the U. of Massachusetts Amherst are working on ... (you may have to sit down for this one) a vaccine to prevent meningeal worm. I am almost afraid to say it too loud. Can you imagine not having to give monthly injections?

Some llama owners have chosen to not give monthly injections for a variety of reasons. They worry for their llamas but may not want to risk the negative effects of monthly deworming. With a meningeal worm vaccine we could stop watching our llamas for any subtle neurological clues that they could have meningeal worm. We can save all that guilt for something else! ..... like why we didn’t fund llama research. It is tax deductible.

In the end each farm has to decide their own deworming program. Knowledge is power though and denial never works. Prevention is paramount. Make sure your llamas are nutritionally sound and never overstock pastures are some means of prevention. One main manner to prevent reinfestation of parasites is to keep the poop cleaned up. Poor sanitation, wet weather, poor animal nutrition, and arbitrary deworming practices are a recipe for disaster.

A microscope and centrifuge are relatively inexpensive so get one of each and go look at some poop!

A Rose by Any Other Name...

by Sue Wilde

When you walk through a rose garden what do you see? What do you smell? What do you think about? What perspective do you bring to the rose garden? Do you see beauty or all the hours of hard work? When I walk through roses I think of my wonderful sister who inherited my grandmother's gift for gardens. Her roses were the high light of the summer and I keep a beautiful bowl of her dried roses to remind me of her often.

When I walk through a herd of llamas I think of all the wonderful brown eyes looking my way and pretty babies that are going to be born. I also can think about the birth, easy, joyful, difficult, sad. How will I market the babies? Will I want to keep them all?!

What creates and affects our perspective on things? What can limit our perspectives? We often hear the expression: "Let's put all this in perspective" but sometimes there are factors that can limit our ability to do this.

1. Our experiences create, affect and can limit our perspectives. Have they been positive? Negative? In the llama industry we can't always have positive experiences because people and animals are not predictable variables but we can manage our experiences so that we are creating as positive future experiences as possible and managing the negative ones so that they don't skew our perspective in a permanently negative direction.

Last week one of my favorite females had a uterine torsion, something I haven't dealt with in many years. We successfully fixed the twist but the baby was dead and in getting it out the uterus ripped and we lost them both. Whew, that was a tough day but I have 4 other "ladies in waiting" and I am watching them more carefully than before and anticipating wonderful new arrivals. I have to do this or not be able to enjoy the new babies arrivals which will I am sure be joyful events!

2. Our lack of knowledge can create, affect and limit our perspective. All of us recently received a message from the ILR explaining away a rumor about computer programming issues. The people who sent out that initial information had a lack of knowledge about the real situation and it seriously limited their perspective on the situation and limited the perspective of others. The ILR cleared this up quickly so that we were moving again in positive direction. Know is the root work of knowledge so work on the root of it all! Mark Twain stated, that, "the most striking difference between a cat and a lie is that the cat has only nine lives!"

3. Fear is, in my opinion, the most limiting factor of life itself, let alone our perspective on situations. "What If" is an important consideration but when it is clouding all our decisions and our progress fear is down right destructive. Fear to talk to new people at llama events, fear to purchase the new herd sire that could make your program know, fear to ask questions, fear to volunteer. It's paralyzing and one thing our industry doesn't need is to be paralyzed! Be BRAVE, research your path and get on it!

4. Biases are the stuff poll gathers thrive on! If we took a poll of our llama community where would your biases lie? Would they be on the side of "team work to make the dream work" or on the side of "let's tear it down and start over from scratch"? Our biases are based on all the previous factors and they are what can form our perspectives on our industry. We need to be open minded and open to new possibilities.

Are things always as they seem? Socrates observed that "the first key to greatness is to be in reality what we appear to be". Let's gain a new perspective on our industry! We judge ourselves by our intentions and others judge us by our actions. What is the true perspective? Actions speak louder than words so let's walk the talk! Let's hear with new ears, see with new eyes, learn from all our experiences, toss our fears out the window and as Dr. Phil would say, Get Real! That's a healthy way to put things in a positive perspective and be the llama industry we want to be!

Chilean Canoso #LL-R79168

Don Juan Quixote #LL-R53072

Ana Nueva #LL-R64280

Dulcenea #LL-R53071

One of the last of the Canoso daughters around today. Ana Bella is another one of those females with killer conformation, the presence and the frame that make her a pasture standout. Her dam, Ana Nueva has produced some outstanding animals. These lines are proven and this female will do anyone's herd proud. Ana Bella is bred back to Amberinas Twenty-one for another outstanding cria.

Lot 75

Chilean Black Jack #LL-R93560
EDR Chilean Dream Dancer #LL-R222123
Day Dreamin #LL-R176687

Out of Lisa Saunders full Chilean Black Jack daughter, this boy has all the stretch that anyone would want in a herd sire. I believe that he will bring an elegance and style to a breeding program. We definitely were watching him for that purpose in our program.

Lot 65

PPR Purple Power

ILR #270648 • Male • DOB: 4/14/07

Bolivian Starmaker #LL-S208944

Macho's Upside WCF

ILR #193972 • Female • DOB: 6/10/97
Service Sire: Bred to GC's 5 Color Draw • Date Bred: 7/08

Macho Camacho #LL-R47836
Macho Blanco Of Tunitas #LL-R65189
Chi Chi PL #LL-R46960

Zenith De Cascadia #LL-R77407
GNLC Uproar #LL-R128642
GNLC Ovation #LL-R77786

Upside is a wonderful mother and I have retained her two daughters in my herd. We really hate to part with her, but most of our females are due in the fall and we wanted to find a good one to put in the sale. We bought her from Ken Rogers and he was not breeding so she has only had two cria both born at our ranch. The late start in her breeding career explains why she looks so young for her age. She is extremely healthy and is showing no signs of slowing down. I bred her to my red appaloosa suri full Chilean Amberina 21 son for a 2009 cria. He has produced several beautiful cria for us and this should be another winner. For more information visit stagestopllamas.com or email us at ssllamas@q.com.

Kashmir II #LL-R90812

Labamba Bolivian Legend #LL-R64052
High Chaparral's Jasmine #LL-R128004
LW Sunset #LL-R61672

A very special Full Bolivian girl and a "Boca Raton" daughter. My heritage is rare. I am quiet, and easy to handle. My wonderful daughter beside me is also Bolivian, sire: Cazo's Bolivian Baron. I had no trouble having her, and I have always had plenty of milk. She is such a pretty color – blue-brown and her markings look like she is wearing a tuxedo and her conformation is wonderful! She has dreams of being a "Show Girl". I am also expecting another baby next year; already ultra-sound positive. Sire is GVL Black Fox (he is a black suri son of Newevo). Consider us for your farm and breeding program.

Lot 58 Chilean Sweet Grace

Mahalia is an amazing girl. She is a statuesque, well-balanced girl with outstanding conformation, and great presence. Her dam, WKF Amen! was the first Juvenile Heavy Wool ALSA Grand National Champion and has produced all females...eight of our best show girls. Mahalia's sire, FVL Sirius, is one of the finest males in the country with offspring who have excelled in the show ring. It is obvious from Mahalia that those genes have been passed to her. She will make an exceptional complement to your herd for show and breeding. For more information call 804.883-6226 or write dlmcd1734@aol.com.

Summer is a Halter Champion, bred to De Los Dios for a spring 09 cria. She has size to spare, an even temperament, and a show winner! She is ready to work in your breeding program. She has had one cria for us by Animal Acres, Grandioso. You will like what you see in Summer!

Welcome

Dear Friends,

It's been an exciting five years for Northwind Farm. Sadly, circumstances dictate that we must take drastic measures and liquidate our herd at this time. It's been an honor to meet and work with so many of you that helped shape the quality of Northwind Farm. I will continue my position as a representative on the L&L board working on behalf of all members. As I bring closure to this unfortunate chapter of my life, I have every intention of continuing my involvement in the llama community. I've been bitten by the "llama bug."

— Robert LaMorte
